Have you guys heard from Lexi this morning? She was at dinner last night and said she was meeting in the lobby at 9:30 but we haven't heard from her. Her phone goes to VM and she hasn't responded to text messages.

So I have racked my brain to think of what may have happened Monday and asked others and we all saw the same that Lexi was Ingushes and happy joking and talking about the rest of the week. So this has to be about Sunday and I would hope you would give me more credit than what I am getting now. Just for the record I walked away from that situation and wherever your mind has gone about what you think my intentions would be with Lexi it's not that and why I away. Thank you giving me any credibility. James, at least punching me in the face for an over assumption. I would have preferred that than this. I'll clear out my things at the church and you won't here from me again.
